

A Paradigm Shift:
A Collaborative, Trauma Informed Approach to Residential Tx.

Howard Adler, L.C.S.W.
Andrew Baker, B.A.

This workshop will present a holistic model developed at Hillside Family of Agencies for youth in residential care who have caused sexual harm. The model is based on evidence based practices and draws from resiliency, violence prevention, social learning, and narrative theory.

This presentation will address:

- The theoretical framework of our model including the trauma informed approach
- Our program logic model
- The process of how the model was developed
- The new assessment
- The components of the clinical interventions. These include individual, family and group modalities.
- The components of the milieu interventions. These also include individual, family and group modalities.
- The use of multi-sensory techniques in all aspects of the program.
- The programmatic changes made
- The challenges of a paradigm shift.
- Implementation including fidelity measures
- Youth & family outcomes to date

Our format will include an experiential exercise. Handouts will be provided.
