

Family Matters: Reintegration of Adult Sex Offenders

Becky Palmer, M.S.

Many adult sex offenders have burned bridges when it comes to looking to their family for help; yet many families want to resume living together. This workshop will speak to the impact of the abuse on the family and issues that may sabotage successful reintegration. Particular attention will be paid to collaboration and development of the treatment team, including child protective services, probation and other involved professions. Participants will have the opportunity to create a family reintegration contract and can expect to have some new tools to incorporate into their daily work.
